Innovative-e President and Managing Partner Invited to Speak at The SharePoint Technology Conference in Boston

The SharePoint Technology Conference will feature more than 60 workshops for IT professionals, systems administration managers, line-of-business managers, business analysts and software developers.

ATLANTA — President of Innovative-e, Mike Taylor, and managing partner, Dux Raymond Sy, will present the latest SharePoint best practices at The SharePoint Technology Conference (SPTechCon), June 22-24, 2009. The three-day conference, held at the Hyatt Regency Cambridge in Boston, will feature more than 60 full- and half-day SharePoint workshops for IT professionals, systems administration managers, line-of-business managers, business analysts and software developers. SharePoint is a web-based Microsoft collaboration technology that empowers organizations to increase worker productivity, reduce information redundancies and streamline document management practices.

"Today's economic climate is forcing organizations to do more with fewer resources. Everyone is looking for ways to increase productivity and efficiency. We are excited to help these organizations get the most out of SharePoint so they can increase their bottom line," said Mike Taylor, president of Innovative-e, Inc., a U.S.-based business technology consulting and services company that helps clients gain competitive advantage through high-performance strategies.

"SharePoint is quickly growing in popularity, especially with the introduction of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) of 2009, which requires organizations and companies that receive stimulus money to provide detailed reporting to the federal government, make information available to the public, and efficiently manage the projects themselves," said Dux Raymond Sy, managing partner of Innovative-e, Inc.
